Control #(ICR#): 25030161

Charge Description: On or about October 19, 2025 at 5:24 PM, in the County of Blue Earth, Minnesota, Matthew John Grothe did after being given notice, or reasonably should have known of the revocation, disobeyed the order by operating in this state any motor vehicle, the operation of which requires a driver's license, while her/his license or privilege was revoked.

STATEMENT OF PROBABLE CAUSE

On October 19, 2025, at approximately 4:59 pm, Commander Sam McGinnis was on a routine patrol when he observed a vehicle on Highway 14 approaching the Southbound ramp for Highway 169. He observed the vehicle bearing Minnesota license plate KNE-422, which was displaying September 2025 registration. A records check confirmed the vehicle's registration was expired. Commander McGinnis then initiated a traffic stop and made contact with the driver who was identified as Derrick Hoehn. A male passenger immediately requested to go inside the store. The passenger displayed signs of nervousness. He was sweating and agitated. Commander McGinnis asked the passenger to identify himself and he provided the name and birth date that was later learned not to be his actual name and date of birth. Hoehn was issued a citation for driving behavior and released. The passenger never returned to the vehicle.

Commander McGinnis was able to eventually identify the passenger as Matthew John Grothe and he learned Grothe's driving privileges were revoked and he had an active warrant out of Brown County.

At 5:23 PM, Commander McGinnis observed the same vehicle now being driven by Grothe. A traffic stop was initiated. Commander McGinnis searched the vehicle and discovered a glass bubble pipe and two plastic baggies with a crystalline substance that field tested positive for methamphetamine and weighed over 5 grams. Hoehn admitted ownership of the items. Also found was a second glasses case also containing a used bubble pipe, additional bubble pipe, additional used glass bubble pipes, one gem-style baggie with suspected methamphetamine, and other miscellaneous non-controlled pharmaceuticals.

This is an example of a “True PDF” (also known as text-based or digitally created PDFs).

This PDFs was created using Microsoft Word using the “print to PDF” function. “True PDF’s” consist of both text and images. We should think about these PDFs having two layers – one layer is the image and a second layer is the text. The image layer shows what the document will look like if it is printed to paper. The text layer is searchable text that is carried over from the original Word file into the new PDF file (the technical term for this layer is “extracted text”). There is no need to make it searchable and the new PDF will have the same text as the original Word file. An example of True PDFs that federal defenders and CJA panel attorneys will be familiar with are the pleadings filed in CM/ECF. The pleading is originally created in Word, but then the attorney either saves it as PDF or prints to PDF and they file that PDF document with the court. Using either process, there is now a PDF file created with an image layer plus text layer. In terms of usability, this is the best type of PDF to receive in discovery as it will have the closest to text searchability of the original file.

This is an example of an “Image-based PDF” (also known as image-only PDFs).

Image-based PDFs are typically created through scanning paper in a copier, taking photographs or taking screenshots. To a computer, they are images. Though we humans can see text in the image, the file only consists of the image layer but not the searchable text layer that True PDFs contain. As a result, we cannot use a computer to search the text we see in the image as that text layer is missing. There are times when discovery is produced, it will be in an image-based PDF format. When you come across image-based PDFs, ask the U.S. Attorney’s Office in what format was that file originally. Second, ask if they have it in a searchable format and specifically if they have it in a digitally created, True, Text-based PDF format. They may not, as they often receive PDFs from other sources before they provide them to you, but you will want to know what is the format in which they have it in, and what is the original format of the file (as far as they know).
